

Andrew Harper's Hideaway Report®

THE HIDEAWAY REPORT UNVEILS DECEMBER ISSUE WITH NEWLY RECOMMENDED HOTELS IN SOUTH AMERICA, THE CARIBBEAN AND FLORIDA

The monthly, members-only publication details smaller, one-of-a-kind hideaways

AUSTIN, TX — December 3, 2018 — The Hideaway Report, a travel editorial brand that provides independent reviews of the most incredible hideaways and experiences around the world, today released its December 2018 issue, which highlights properties in Argentina, Brazil, Jamaica and Florida. Editors from the Hideaway Report recommended eight of the visited hotels, six of which are newly recommended.

Hideaway Report editors travel anonymously and seek out smaller, one-of-a-kind hotels where travelers can expect the highest levels of personal service, as well as truly unique experiences. Those that meet the editors' exacting standards join a select group of Hideaway Report-recommended properties.

The highlight of the editors' travels this month was Awasi Iguazú in Argentina, a 14-villa rainforest resort located close to the spectacular Iguazú Falls. The hotel landed an unusually high rating of 97. Occasionally, Hideaway Report editors discover a new hotel that transforms the experience of a famous destination, and Awasi Iguazú is just such a property.

"The clear standout for our December issue was Awasi Iguazú, which met our editors high expectations and deservedly received the top score from our trips," said the Hideaway Report's editor-in-chief. "The accommodations are masterpieces of understated luxury. Best of all, the resort has negotiated privileged early-morning access to the Argentine national park so that it is possible to view the majestic falls before the arrival of the crowds."

Editors also returned to Belmond Hotel das Cataratas in Iguacu, Brazil, and Hotel Fasano São Paulo, both of which received renewed endorsements.

As with all Hideaway Report editors, the editor-in-chief travels anonymously to maintain independence while reviewing hotels and uncovering hideaways for the publication's loyal membership base.

The December 2018 Hideaway Report newly recommended properties are:

Argentina:

Awasi Iguazú: Tranquil 14-villa resort occupying a private and secluded 25-acre plot in a patch of rainforest outside the town of Puerto Iguazú, close to the magnificent Iguazú Falls.

Rating: 97

Brazil:

Palácio Tangará: Glamorous mansion-hotel tucked within a lush, tropical 27-acre park designed by landscape architect Roberto Burle Marx, 10 miles southwest of the São Paulo city center.

Rating: 94

Fasano Boa Vista: Lavish rural retreat set on approximately 2,000 acres in peaceful countryside two hours west of São Paulo.

Rating: 93

UXUA Casa Hotel: Tranquil and exceptionally atmospheric hotel complex of 11 traditional one-to three-bedroom houses set amid idyllic tropical gardens in the languid seaside town of Trancoso.

Rating: 95

Jamaica:

GoldenEye: Stylish refuge located close to the town of Oracabessa that was formerly the home of James Bond creator Ian Fleming until his death in 1964.

Rating: 91

Florida:

Ponte Vedra Lodge: Gracious resort located in a spectacular seaside setting 24 miles southeast of Jacksonville.

Rating: 94

For the entire December 2018 Hideaway Report, and to become a Hideaway Report member, visit HideawayReport.com.

***

About the Hideaway Report

For close to 40 years, the Hideaway Report has sought out distinctive hotels and hideaways in the most incredible destinations worldwide. Hideaway Report editors travel anonymously and pay full rate for all travel-related expenses, allowing the editorial brand to do what no other travel company does today: Publish reviews with an unyielding commitment to independence and objectivity.

###

Contact: Kristen Kehlet
HIGH10 MEDIA
Kristen@high10media.com